jessie.merryman@moodlerooms.comMoodlerooms Awarded Statewide Contract for REMC $AVE Bid Projectjoule™ Recommended as Standard LMS Solution in Michigan*

Baltimore, MD — Moodlerooms, Inc., provider of the enterprise learning management platform called joule™, has been selected by the REMC Association of Michigan's Statewide $AVE Bid Project as a recommended provider of learning management solutions for eligible institutions and agencies across Michigan.

The REMC Statewide $AVE Bid Project is provided for the schools of Michigan, as a service of their local REMC, to provide volume discounts on a variety of educational goods and services. This initiative saves schools both time and money by providing a bid that meets state standards and allows schools to buy without additional bidding. Vendors are selected based on product knowledge, support, price, and customer satisfaction.

joule combines the benefits of open-source features with the support of enterprise services to provide one open platform for the entire state to create resources that can be shared across districts. Within joule, Michigan's educators have access to features like outcomes-based learning, reports and notifications, federated content management, synchronous Web-conferencing tools and automated administration, to offer more effective and engaging learning environments.

Through the REMC $AVE Bid Project, joule will be available at a discounted price along with the opportunity for aggregated volume discounts as more institutions implement joule. joule is also E-Rate eligible, which can provide additional savings of up to 90%. Eligible institutions and agencies include public, non-public and private schools (K-12, preschools), community colleges, universities and colleges, public libraries and museums (local, county, state) and state, county, and local government agencies.

“Moodlerooms is honored to have the recommendation and partnership of REMCAM,” explains Moodlerooms Vice President of Sales and Marketing Joe McAvoy. “REMCAM shares Moodlerooms’ vision of making educational resources more accessible and affordable to students and instructors, so this relationship is a perfect fit.”
